It took a while but finally we are about to start. Each empty space in our cars are filled up with additional items. Wood, beer, drinks, shoes, bricks. What is this about? Our road book will tell us. Unfortunately it is waiting for us on the Alpensee.

There are three ways to get there: A pedal boat, a rowing boat or for some titanic style action, just a plain door. We have to solve a quiz. The better our answers, the better the water vehicle we will get. Smart as we are, we get the pedal boat. Our next exercise is to take pictures of ourselves in front of all the borders we cross. Now it is 2 PM and we are finally about to leave for Austria.

Unfortunately we can not drive across the Glockner as we planned to. Paid roads are not allowed. We take the old Brenner-Pass and head to Italy. And then back to Austria again. There we take the B111 which turns out as the highlight of the day. Tons of serpentines. Small roads. Nice ancient villages. And a look at the mountains in an awesome sunset.
